

Report From The Statute Law Revision Committee Upon Alternative Procedures In Preliminary Hearings T

APPENDIX C: Pilot Project Profiles

Riverside County Integrated Project (RCIP) Profile
Descriptor
Problem that the project was intended to address.	The RCIP integrated four major planning efforts in Riverside County with the goal of providing more efficient processes and better environmental and transportation results. Traditionally, the four planning efforts integrated into the RCIP (local community development, transportation, and habitat) would be conducted individually, in a linear fashion, perhaps separated by many years, and often spawning lawsuits between developers and environmentalists. The species habitat plan integrated into the RCIP addressed multiple species. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) and the California Department of Fish and Game wanted to perform multi-species planning in the region because there were many species/habitat issues, there had been too frequent battles between land use and conservation, and there was no gain in a permit-by-permit or species-by-species process.
Environmental permits and approvals, if any, which are being addressed by the project.	The Community and Environmental Transportation Acceptability Process (CETAP) is intended to accomplish National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) compliance. The Multi-Species Habitat Conservation Plan (MSHCP) allowed issuance of one Federal and State endangered species Umbrella Permit valid for 75 years. There is no more need for full Section 7 coordination or Individual Permits from the USFWS and the California Department of Fish and Game, but some continuing coordination will occur. The Special Area Management Plan (SAMP) will allow issuance of Regional General Section 404 Permits for projects in the watersheds covered by the SAMP that meet specific criteria.
Unique approaches or processes that are being used to achieve environmental streamlining in the transportation planning and project development process.	The RCIP is integrating and coordinating the activities of stakeholders involved in four previously separate and distinct planning efforts: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The preparation of a new Riverside County General Plan 2. The development of a Multi-Species Habitat Conservation Plan (MSHCP). 3. The identification of four new transportation corridors through the Community and Environmental Transportation Acceptability Process (CETAP) and 4. The development of a watershed plan for the San Jacinto and Santa Margarita watersheds (referred to as the Special Area Management Plan (SAMP)).
Goals or objectives of the sponsor for this project.	The aim of the RCIP is to be proactive in coordinating growth and transportation planning. The long-term results should include a consensus-based process that saves time and money.
